

Maryann G. Bell leads Wingspan's Advisory practice helping families create their legacies. She has a deep understanding of the structures needed to design governance and policy for multi-generational, family-owned enterprises. Her thoughtful approach cultivates conversations that drive positive change.

Maryann is an experienced governance expert having chaired seven boards. She has worked with rising leaders over decades with students from Georgetown University and throughout her two decades in finance. Maryann joined Wingspan after almost 15 years at Goldman Sachs in NYC, Boston, and London where she oversaw the International Shares team. Maryann also serves as Director for the Gallivan Bell Family Office and holds an MBA from Harvard University and BA with distinction from Georgetown University.

She and her husband Paul live in Austin, TX. They have three amazing daughters.
